A disastrous fire visited McHenry early last Saturday morning. The fire is supposed to have started in Evanston's dry goods store, destroying the building and its contents, Beasley's drug store, Weber's saloon, Dr. Larsen's office, Dr. Chamberlain's office, Ed Long's residence and John Stroner's shoe store. The total loss is estimated at $80,000, with only $1,000 insurance. The excellent work of the local fire department prevented the destruction of a larger part of the village, as a heavy wind was blowing at the time of the fire.

Mail-order buying builds up the large cities at the expense of the smaller cities and towns. Every dollar used this way by a resident of this community takes a dollar out of circulation at home and puts it into circulation many miles distant. The dealer, who spends with your home grocer, dry goods dealer, hardware merchant, druggist or other business man, builds the community in which you live. These help pay taxes to support the town, repair the streets, maintain the schools, build and sustain the churches. The mail-order house pays nothing to the taxes of your city and has nothing in common with you except to get your money. Patronize home merchants and you benefit yourself.

WOMAN VICTIM OF GASOLINE EXPLOSION

While preparing the mid-day meal in momentary expectation of the return of her husband, Mrs. Sophia Clausenius, of the Morrow flats on Twenty-second street, in North Chicago, was terribly burned and died at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Clausenius was injured by the explosion of a gasoline stove and was burned almost to a crisp from her head to her feet. Not an inch of her body escaped, and she must have swallowed the flame, her lungs being burned.

The accident happened about 11:30, as she was preparing dinner, awaiting the arrival of her husband from his work at the foundry, where he is employed as a moulder. She was using a gasoline stove, and somehow it caught fire. The kitchen immediately caught fire and her clothing was a mass of flames. She was all alone in the flat, as the couple had no children, and no one was near to aid her. Rushing frantically from the blazing room, she ran down the short hall of the flat to the stairs. At the top she fell and plunged down the entire flight and through the glass door at the entrance. Her arms were severely cut by the glass and the hall was spattered with blood and littered with burned remnants of hair and clothing. She rushed into the street, the flames rising in a solid sheet around her head.

Harvey Hyde, one of the village policemen, was standing nearby and as soon as he saw her he ran to her side and commenced tearing off her burning garments. It was necessary for him to hold her while he was doing so, and he severely burned both hands. Hyde showed great presence of mind, and did all possible, but the unfortunate woman was already burned very badly.

Jacob Stickler, the manager, had heard someone was burned and ran to the place. He and Hyde carried Mrs. Clausenius into Hyde's flat, which is next to Clausenius' on the ground floor, and Dr. Connell was immediately sent for.

The woman, although she suffered terribly, was somewhat numb and did not lose consciousness at all. Dr. Connell soon arrived and dressed her burns, which covered her entire body, not an inch but what was burned almost to a crisp. Lying on the bed, she showed patience and courage almost supernatural. Only an occasional moan escaped her lips, and water was all she asked for.

THE APOSTLE DOWIE ARRIVES

A SECRET ARMORED ROOM REPORTED DISCOVERED IN BASEMENT OF SHILOH HOUSE

Wilbur Glenn Voliva and his lieutenants well may tremble, for I, the first apostle, am about to banish them from the city which they have so treacherously seized. As I speed toward Zion the Lord's voice tells me my detractors are in a state of mental panic and that the faithful will greet me as their true and only leader. Woe unto them who may remain disloyal. --John Alexander Dowie.

If John Alexander Dowie comes to Zion in peace, well and good. If he seeks war he will find that we are prepared for it. He will not be allowed to harangue the people and thereby incite disturbances and create disorder. His threats to have us arrested do not frighten me in the least. Two can play at that game. When the time comes I will confront him with the charges against him and he will have an opportunity to defend himself. --Wilbur Glenn Voliva.

Dowie made a statement denying that he would stir up trouble or call down the wrath of God on his overthrowers. His statement follows:

I am a man of peace. There will be no fireworks in Zion City when I return. I will rest a day in Chicago before I go to Zion City. I will there be the cause of no tumult in the streets. I believe that I have been terribly wronged, and it is even more treacherous by reason of the fact that these threats were taken during my absence and while I was in broken health. I am not coming back as an avenging angel. I simply am here to protect my rights and to shelter what rightfully belongs to me. I shall rest in Shiloh house under the stars and stripes. I am innocent, but only God knows this now. At the proper time the world shall know, for I will prove it. Let my friends be patient, for my time is coming. --John Alexander Dowie.

Dowie arrived in Chicago Tuesday morning. He was driven to the Annex hotel, denying himself to all the world pending a secret conference with a Chicago banker who has come to his relief with offers of millions if necessary, to restore him to his tottering throne. Dowie will not proceed to Zion at once, possibly not for several days. The question whether he goes at all now rests on his ability to recoup from the fearful blow he has received.

Dark hints were the outcome of a meeting held in Shiloh tabernacle Monday night. They followed the announcement that a secret and armored room had been discovered in the basement of Shiloh house. It was hinted that under the cement floor evidences of practices which would astonish Zion were discovered. It even was whispered that the bones of two women might be found buried there, and that evidences that some one had been dabbling in chemistry and metallurgy would be found. Oversee Voliva, when asked as to the rumors, said he would not discuss them. He previously had told the meeting that if forced to do so he would make revelations which would horrify.

Voliva described to the congregation the secret den as follows: "In Shiloh house has been discovered a retreat with two massive steel doors. The inside door was battered in and there was discovered a retreat safe against the ships of the Russian navy. In it was a peculiarly constructed bed, the most peculiar bed I believe I ever saw. From this cell led a funnel-shaped tube near a little window, which was barred by a massive iron shutter and bars. The double steel doors and the shutters of the window were fastened on the inside by great iron bars and cleats. This was built by a man who wants you to tell him what fear feels like."

Gladstone Dowie, who, with Captain Walker of the local police, discovered the mysterious retreat, furnished privately a more detailed description as follows:

"We found two heavy steel doors. We forced the first one after some trouble, then took sledge hammers and crashed the second one. There was a space of about two feet between the first and second doors. The walls of the room are of concrete. They are from two and one-half to four feet in thickness. The doors are about three-quarters of an inch thick. The ceiling, which is about flush with the basement ceiling, is reinforced with steel girders. The room was built up in the front of the basement and is about fourteen feet in dimensions. Opening from it to the outer air under the front steps and porch of the house is the window, the steel shutters of which is about half an inch thick. The room itself was as sumptuously furnished as the apartments upstairs.

"Built into an angle of the room was a stationary bed, apparently a permanent part of the structure. Springs of almost inconceivable resilience were surmounted by two thick and downy mattresses and these in turn topped by softest covering until the surface of the couch reached four feet from the floor. From one side to the other of the bed was seven feet. At the head was a telephone."

Scottish and Irish Gaelic.

The difference between the Scottish and Irish Gaelic is merely a variation of dialect. In both the accent or stress is on the root syllable of the word, but Scottish Gaelic dialect exhibits a tendency to follow the English fashion of throwing the accent as far back as possible.

A Sermon in Brief.

WORKING THE OATMEAL DODGE.

Shrewd Scheme by Which Thieves Victimized Grocer.

"It reminds me of the oatmeal dodge," said John M. Collins, Chicago's chief of police.

He was speaking of an ingenious swindle that had been worked successfully on a dentist.

"The oatmeal dodge," he continued, "was worked on a grocer in the suburbs."

"A man entered the shop and engaged the grocer in conversation. While they talked another man came in."

"Do you sell oatmeal?" the newcomer asked.

"Yes, sir," said the grocer, rubbing his hands. "The very best. How much?"

"But the man interrupted. 'I just wanted to know,' he said. 'Good-day.' And he walked out."

"The grocer, looking a little disappointed, resumed his conversation with the stranger. In a few minutes a second man appeared."

"Do you sell oatmeal?" he asked.

"Yes," the grocer answered.

"Thank you. Good-day."

"And this man also disappeared."

"Well, what the deuce?" exclaimed the grocer. "But, as we were saying, he resumed, and the interrupted conversation went briskly on."

"Soon a third man entered the shop. He said:

"Do you sell oatmeal?"

"Yes," the grocer snapped.

"Thank you. Good-day."

"And this man departed--on a run. For the grocer, thoroughly enraged at last, had seized a club and rushed upon him. He had, however, a clear pair of heels. The grocer was unable to overtake him. So, after a chase of 100 yards or so, he returned breathless."

"He found the first man gone. The shop was empty. So was the till."

"Once more the oatmeal dodge had succeeded."

HILDEBRAND ELOPES WITH YEAGER'S WIFE

The Record-Herald of April 9th, says: Confirmation of the rumors that Eugene Hildebrand, premier rider on American race tracks, had eloped from Hot Springs with May Yeager, wife of Joe Yeager, one of the most widely known horse owners, bookmakers and plungers, reached New Orleans today through letters received by several prominent race track men. They were written in Hot Springs and Memphis and conveyed the information that Jockey Hildebrand and Mrs. Joe Yeager had disappeared at the same time and had been seen together in Chicago.

Rumors have been floating about for a week, hinting at the alleged elopement, but it is said Yeager and his friends had used every effort to keep the affair quiet. But in one letter received by a bookmaker at the Fair Grounds it was stated that Yeager had admitted that his wife had run away, and that he was not going to worry over her return.

Eugene Hildebrand has been the star of the saddle for several seasons, and in 1904 he set a new world's record by riding more winners than any other jockey known to the turf. For several years he was under contract to Joe Yeager, during which time he was the reigning sensation wherever the latter booked or raced his stable.

Last spring at Memphis it was common gossip that Hildebrand was apparently much admired by the wife of his employer, and that on the day Hildebrand's mount fell in a race Mrs. Yeager was more concerned than anyone else, and with her sister, then visiting her, she raced across the infield to where the injured boy had fallen. She cared for him and watched over him until he recovered from his wounds, which were only slight. Hildebrand went East and later in the season he got into trouble and was indefinitely suspended. Recently he was re-instated and had been riding in his old-time form at Hot Springs. Yeager was there, too, although it is said the contract between the two had been broken.

Being interested in the West Baden Hotel, at West Baden, Ind., and also in the Arkansas Club at Hot Springs, there were times when Yeager's absence from home was necessary, and on one of these occasions, it is said, Hildebrand and Mrs. Yeager suddenly took their departure, unannounced to their many friends at the Vapor City. Both are said to have been seen in Chicago, and it is believed they are headed East, where Hildebrand will ride again this season.

Three years ago Yeager was worth over $500,000, made from nothing in his famous plunges. He started on his successful career about five years ago, when he met May Bird from Atlantic Iowa. She was married then, but secured a divorce, resumed her maiden name of Bird, and was shortly after married to Yeager.

Mrs. Yeager's parents are now living on what is known as the Grace Small-Coffin farm, near Antioch, a station on the Wisconsin Central Railroad, not far from Chicago. This handsome farm was purchased by Yeager during his successful seasons on the turf, and there he installed Mr. and Mrs. Bird, where they still reside.

FIRE IN HAINESVILLE

Three Buildings Burned--One Man Escapes from Bed with Life

VILLAGERS FORM BUCKET BRIGADE

Old Landmark, the Tavern, is Burned to the Ground Before the Flery Blast of the Flames

The village of Hainesville faced extermination by fire at three o'clock Monday morning and had not all of the people turned out to form a bucket brigade the business portion would have gone down before the flames.

Hans Golden, in whose place the fire started, awakened from a sound sleep in time to escape being incinerated under the falling roof of his house.

The earliest landmark in Lake County, the old tavern, was burned to the ground. A list of the places that went down or were partially burned is as follows:

House occupied by Hans Golden and family.

The old Tavern.

The residence of Mrs. Thomas Gorman. Other houses and stores were protected only by the vigilant action of the villagers in forming bucket brigades and drenching the village with water.

The conflagration started in the Golden residence, which is familiarly known as the old Kapple place. It was formerly owned by Charles Kapple, but was now owned by C. Schanck.

Golden was alone in the house, his family at the time were visiting her parents at this place. The fire seemed to have started from an overheated chimney, as the ruins point to the conclusion that near the chimney was the initial point of attack. Golden was aroused from a sound slumber by the crackling of the flames, with a yell he leaped out of bed and in scanty attire ran into the street, just as the roof of the house fell flaming, flaming, and bursting into millions of red hot embers in the ruins. He escaped with his life. Another moment would have been his last.

The conflagration then seized upon the old tavern, which was five feet away from the Golden residence.

The old tavern is the earliest landmark in Lake County and has long been venerated as such. It is the property of George Battershall. The structure was as dry as tinder and all of wood, so that it went up in a puff.

The villagers had meantime formed themselves into a bucket brigade. The buckets filled with water were passed from hand to hand and the houses in the vicinity were deluged until the flames could not invade them. However the Gorman house caught fire.

The firemen then centered their efforts there and by the most vigilant action succeeded in stemming the mounting tide of consuming fire which ebbed before the husky work of the volunteers and finally receded, leaving the main part of the town safe with the exception of two houses a total loss and one in partial ruin.

One or two other places besides the Gorman house caught fire from sparks but it was quickly extinguished.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE EIGHTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT

I do hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of Representative to the General Assembly from the Eighth Senatorial District, subject to the action of the Republican primaries to be held on Saturday, April 28, 1906, and respectfully solicit your support. If elected, I do hereby agree to vote for the candidate for United States Senator who shall receive the endorsement of the voters at the primaries.

FRANK R. COVEY,
Belvidere, Ill.

Disgruntled One Neatly Answered.

George Harvey, the editor, was talking about literary prize competitions. "These competitions no doubt do good," he said, "but they excite a great deal of rage and bitterness. If, for instance, there are 500 competitors for a prize it is likely that 499 of them will be dissatisfied with the award."

Mr. Harvey smiled.

"Lucky is the judge," he said, "who can answer the disgruntled competitor as a friend of mine once did."

"My friend was the judge in a recent contest. Over 1,000 sonnets were submitted. My friend read them all, awarded the prize of $25 to a young gentleman of Boston and in a few days received from another competitor a letter saying:

"Have you not made a mistake and given the prize to the worst instead of to the best sonnet?"

"My friend wrote back: 'No, for if I had the prize would undoubtedly have fallen to you.'"

GREAT CITY OF STEEL

TO BE BUILT ON THE SHORES OF LAKE MICHIGAN.

Steel Corporation Will Erect Wonderful Structure and Employ More than 10,000 Men at Its Opening—$14,000,000 to Be Spent on Plant.

Word has come to Indianapolis from Washington that the government will lend every material aid to the plans of the United States Steel Corporation to establish a mammoth plant in Lake County, Indiana, at a site near Indiana Harbor, and which is to be known as Gary. The information is to the effect that Secretary Taft, who has authority to fix deep harbor lines in the absence of action by Congress, will do so unless this Congress makes the necessary provision for the work. E. H. Gary, chairman of the executive committee of the United States Steel Corporation, was in consultation with Congressman Crumpacker for several days, and the assurances given by him and received from Secretary Taft leave no doubt that the work on the big plant will be begun at once and pushed rapidly to completion.

The steel corporation has not asked any aid from the government nor any bonuses from the people of Lake County, but has purchased hundreds of acres of land at enormous prices and proposes to expend $14,000,000 on its new plant. One of the first steps will be to erect a large number of cottages for the men who will be engaged in construction, and these will afterward be occupied by the men who will find permanent employment in the big mills. It is the intention to incorporate in Indiana, and this branch of the corporation is to be known as the Indiana Steel Company. The immense purchases of land and the large scale on which the plant is projected are the forerunners of a gradual concentration in Indiana, for it is understood that a number of small plants throughout the country are to be abandoned, the employees moved to Gary and the capacity of the plant increased till it will be the largest of its kind in the world.

Big Land Boom.

The coming of this gigantic corporation with its millions of money to invest has worked a great change in Lake County. It has proved as good as an oil boom to the land owners, with the added prospect of being very much more permanent. Ten years ago the lands in and around the site of the proposed mills could have been bought for a song, and it was rare to find a piece of land that was assessed for taxation at more than $20 to $25 an acre. The first purchases by the corporation were at figures close around the $100 mark. Then land began to soar and many farms were sold at $200 and $250 per acre, while in some instances as much as $350 an acre was paid for land that was absolutely necessary to round out the tract which the corporation desired. The negotiation for this land began less than six months ago, and men who were poor and always expected to be poor if they depended upon the land find themselves with small fortunes in hand and free from debt.

Of course, the object of the United States Steel Corporation is to lessen the cost of production of the manufactured product. Much of the raw material which it uses comes from the Northwest, and the long railroad haul to its plants is no inconsiderable part of the whole cost. It owns large ore deposits in Michigan and Wisconsin, and if it can get this ore to its plant by water in its own ships and thus escape the railroad charges there would be a very material difference in cost.

The site of the new industry and town of Gary, by which it will be surrounded, is only seven miles east of the Illinois-Indiana line, and but nine miles from South Chicago. The plant will employ more than 10,000 men when it is first opened, and it is expected that a city of 20,000 people will be added to Indiana in two years.

MAY BUY CAR LINES.

Chicago, However, Cannot Operate Her Street Railways.

Under the result of the Chicago city election, in which the question of municipal ownership of the street railways was the vital issue, the city can proceed to acquire and control the railways, but cannot operate them. At the same time the voters, while declaring that the city shall not proceed to operate the railways, declared that as a question of public policy it would be desirable for the city to do so. Three propositions were submitted to the voters, the first of which was: "Shall the city of Chicago proceed to operate street railways?"

This proposition required 60 per cent of the total vote cast in order to become effective.

The total vote cast on the question of municipal ownership was 231,171. Of this number 120,911 were cast in favor of municipal operation of the street railways and 110,260 against it. In order to become binding the proposition to operate the railways should have received 138,703 votes. It therefore fell short of the required number by 17,792 votes.

The proposition to issue $75,000,000 in street railway certificates was carried by a vote of 110,008 against 100,669. The question of public policy was carried by a vote of 111,862 to 108,025. This question has no legal effect whatever, it being simply "Shall the City Council proceed without delay to secure the municipal ownership and operation of the street railways under the Muller law instead of granting franchises to private companies?"

Mayor Dunne construed the passage of the $75,000,000 certificate and public policy propositions as a victory for municipal ownership, but expressed his disappointment over the defeat of the proposition for municipal operation.

The election was one of the most interesting to Chicago voters that has been held in many years. The vote was much larger than had been expected, and all day the contest for and against municipal ownership was bitterly fought. Party lines were largely ignored and the eligibility of candidates depended more upon their attitude toward municipal operation of street cars and high licenses for saloons than upon their party records.

In Milwaukee Sherburn M. Becker, the "boy Alderman," who ran for Mayor on the Republican ticket against David S. Rose, Democrat, and W. A. Arnold, Socialist, was elected by about 2,000 plurality.

The story of his fight is the most unique in Milwaukee's history, and has few parallels in the country. Becker was first mentioned for Mayor as the joke of a fireman, who had been given hot coffee by Becker during a fire. The idea took, and Becker ran for the office against the strongest possible combination, and was elected. The campaign was spectacular. Becker is not 30 years old, but he has served two terms as Alderman and two as County Supervisor.

Welding Copper and Steel.

A French engineer is now enlisting American capital to develop his process of welding copper and steel. It is expected that this combination will largely take the place of solid copper in the transmission of electricity. It will also be useful in the manufacture of cooking utensils. A plant for this purpose is being equipped at Chester, Pa., where steel ingots and bars will be turned out coated with copper, aluminum, silver or bronze in the form of sheets or wire.

The Largest Steamship.

The Kaiserin Augusta Victoria is the newest addition to the Hamburg-American line, having just been completed at Stettin. She is the largest steamship ever built, having a total displacement of 43,400 tons. There are eight decks above the water line, one more than the Amerika. She has an a la carte restaurant, elevators, fifty private cabins, gymnasium, electric baths and a palm garden. She is 100 feet long and 78 feet wide, and has a passenger capacity of 8,150, besides a crew of 650.

1905—Year of Few Strikes.

According to data just published by the Massachusetts bureau of labor, the year ending Sept. 30, 1905, was particularly free from industrial disputes in that State. There were but 153 labor controversies, 133 being strikes, 2 lockouts and 3 partaking of the nature of both a strike and a lockout. This number, as compared with the disputes of 1903-1904, shows a decrease of 40. The period was marked by no large or general strike, and, on the whole, the disputes were of minor importance, and the number of disputes was less than in any preceding year.

More discussion occurred in the textile industry than in any other, the industrial stoppages numbering 45, or about 20 per cent of the entire number. The inharmonious state of affairs in the textile industry was occasioned largely by the introduction of new machinery, the electric warp-stop motion, together with the operation of the 10-loom system, being the primary causes of the greater number of strikes.

The decreasing number of trade disputes is accounted for in a large measure by the joint industrial agreement and the more conservative attitude on the part of trade union leaders in discouraging the resort to strike unless found to be absolutely unavoidable. The sympathetic strike in Massachusetts, it is said, is becoming apparently a weapon of the past.

Industrial Notes.

Some of the garment making contractors of Boston are attempting to re-establish the 10-hour workday. The Boston unions were informed last week, and they immediately took steps to prevent any extension of the hours of labor from the present nine-hour day.

After a conference at New York between John Mitchell and Samuel Gompers, it was announced that Gompers had pledged the support of the American Federation of Labor to the mine workers' organization. Mr. Gompers held that all contentions of the miners were justified.

The Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers has refused its sanction of the strike of 300 skilled men of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, due to the discharge of a puddler for going to a saloon during work hours. This means that mill owners will be allowed to dictate regarding the drinking of employees when on duty.

Boston carpenters' district council adopted the working card of the grand council of eastern Massachusetts last week. The north shore district council also joined the grand body, absolutely completing the organization for that vicinity. It now represents an aggregate of about 15,000 men. The effort is to be made for a uniform wage for the entire district.

John A. Flatt, organizer of the A. F. of L. in Canada, reports his recent work in Montreal, Que. As a result of organization among the workers in this city, wages have steadily increased. This is especially noticeable in the building trades. Molders and shoe workers have also advanced very materially. Among the unorganized crafts the hours of toil are long and the wages are shorter. Skilled trades have been steadily employed. Eleven firms have conceded increased wages to shoe cutters and only three remain to be settled with. As yet the retail clerks are not organized and as a consequence are working long hours. Laundry workers, leather workers, metal polishers, platers and brass workers have organized. Printing pressmen, electrical workers and fur workers are about to form unions.

Massachusetts State Representative George H. Jackson of Lynn has introduced in the House a bill legalizing picketing during strikes, lockouts and other labor troubles. The bill provides that strikers may legally walk upon the streets and highways in the vicinity of any place where a strike is in progress, and that they may approach persons working or intending to do so and persuade them to discontinue. In many respects the measure is similar to those which have been introduced by the laboring interests for several past sessions. Last year such a bill was defeated in the House.

CONGRESS

Mr. Long of Kansas spoke at length in the Senate Tuesday in support of the railroad rate bill. Several Senators who were not at the recent conference at the White House when the Long amendment was considered made inquiry concerning its proceedings, but both Mr. Long and Mr. Allison declined to divulge anything. Mr. Long assumed complete responsibility for the amendment. Mr. Tillman presented his daily letter on the railroad and coal situation, it being a complaint from O. W. Eedes of Balston Spa, N. Y., a retail dealer, who charged that the Delaware and Hudson Railroad Company had crowded him out of business. The conference report on the Indian bill was considered, but no action was taken. The House, by a vote of 202 to 23, passed the national quarantine bill, which gives the general government control of sanitary work in epidemics, particularly yellow fever in the Southern States.

In the Senate Wednesday Mr. Newlands discussed the railroad rate bill, advocating amendments providing for the national incorporation of railroads, and announcing himself as favorable to government ownership. Mr. Daniel spoke on the lack of representation from the Southern States in the public service. He based his remarks on a provision in the urgent deficiency appropriation bill for the representation of the United States at the next Pan-American congress in Rio de Janeiro, and said the plans of the State Department did not contemplate representation of the South or the far West. On his motion the bill was amended so as to provide for more delegates and as amended was passed. The bill opening to settlement 605,000 acres of land in the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache reservations in Oklahoma was called up in the House by Mr. Stephens (Texas), who stated that the measure had passed the House early in the session, but some objection had been made to it by the commissioner of Indian affairs and it therefore was recalled from the President and the desired changes incorporated in it. Mr. Fitzgerald (New York) severely criticized the President's course in the matter, but the measure was passed without division.

The discussion of the rate bill in the Senate Thursday reached the acrimonious stage, considerable ill feeling being stirred up over the frequent thrusts at the Senators who attended the now famous White House conference. Mr. Dooliver, in defending the right of Senators to confer with the President, charged that other Senators had been in consultation with the presidents of railroad companies. Mr. Bailey and Mr. Foraker resented this and the debate grew intense until Mr. Dooliver poured oil upon the waters. Mr. Stone spoke in support of the House rate bill. Following an ancient custom, the members of the House made the postoffice appropriation bill the excuse for a number of speeches having no bearing on the measure, but of general interest. The rights of labor were discussed by Mr. Towne (N. Y.), good roads by Mr. Lee (Ga.), railway mail pay by Mr. Steenerson (Minn.) and the tariff by Mr. Rainey (Ill.). Mr. Gurnea (W. Va.) secured consent to have printed in the Record Judge Humphrey's opinion in the best case, the oral argument by the Attorney General and the several statutes relating to compulsory testimony and resulting immunity from prosecution, for the guidance of committees.

In making an effort Friday to get the Senate to agree upon a date for a vote on the railway rate bill Mr. Tillman made the important statement that one week more probably would exhaust the general debate on the measure. Mr. Aldrich would not consent, however. During the session there were three speeches on the bill by Messrs. Elkins, Gamble and Keen. A bill authorizing a cable from Key West, Fla., to Guantanamo, Cuba, and thence to the Isthmus of Panama, for governmental and commercial purposes, at a cost of $927,000, was passed. The tariff, railway mail subsidies and denatured alcohol were the features of the debate in the House, the postoffice appropriation bill being under consideration.

There was no session of the Senate Saturday. The House continued the consideration of the postoffice appropriation bill, and in the latitude accorded under general debate the discussion took on a wide range, including railway mail pay, increasing wages for rural letter carriers, the American smelter trust and the corrupt use of money in electioneering with a sidelight on the naturalization law. Without touching any paragraph of the bill under discussion adjournment was taken at 4:45 p. m. until Monday.

Mr. McLaurin and Mr. Morgan addressed the Senate Monday, the former advocating railway rate legislation and the latter opposing it on the ground that it interfered with State rights. Mr. Berry of Arkansas reappeared in the Senate after three months spent in a fruitless campaign for re-election. The Vice President appointed Messrs. Hale, Allison and Teller as conferees on the urgency deficiency bill. District of Columbia legislation occupied the attention of the House. Mr. Hepburn of Iowa, replying to a speech of Mr. Simms of Tennessee advocating self-government for the people of the district, upheld the present form, but criticized its administration. The urgency deficiency bill was sent to conference. Messrs. Littauer, Tawney and Livingston being named conferees. The House passed the Senate bill imposing a charge for tuition on non-resident pupils in the District of Columbia, and also the bill regulating the employment of juvenile workers.

National Capital Notes.

President Roosevelt has removed Horace Speed, district attorney of Oklahoma on charges of misconduct in office. Representative Bach has introduced a bill which gives the interstate commerce commission the power to prescribe upon complaint the number of hours a railroad employee shall be required to work. Representative Hearst of New York has introduced a bill prohibiting secret rebates, discriminations and concessions, and providing imprisonment of one to ten years for giving or receiving such rebates.

AMERICAN WOMEN FIND RELIEF

The Case of Miss Irene Crosby Is One of Thousands of Cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women realize that it is not the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely.

Thousands of American women, however, have found relief from all monthly suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It cures the condition which causes so much discomfort and robs these periods of their terrors.

Miss Irene Crosby, of 313 Charlton Street, East Savannah, Ga., writes:

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a true friend to women. It has been of great benefit to me, curing me of irregular and painful periods when everything else had failed, and I gladly recommend it to other suffering women."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), displacement of organs, inflammation or ulceration, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising women free of charge. Thousands have been cured by so doing.

Jimmy Fixed It.

A persevering youth had called several times at the home of a young lady, to be met each time with a "not at home." Upon one occasion he had seen her go in just before he reached the gate. His ring was answered by her small brother.

"Jimmy, I'd like to see your sister," the determined young man said.

"She ain't at home," Jimmy said, surveying him disdainfully.

"But I just saw her come in," the youth protested.

"Can't help that. Tell you what I'll do, though," Jimmy said, condescendingly. "You give me your pack of cigarettes, an' I'll send her down."

"You are too young to smoke, Jimmy."

"Do I get 'em?" Jimmy said, aggressively, half closing the door.

"Here they are!" was the conciliating reply, and the box was handed over. Leaving the visitor seated in the parlor, Jimmy disappeared, to return in a few minutes.

"She'll be down soon," he said.

"How did you work that, Jimmy?" the youth inquired.

"The boy surveyed him with an amused grin."

"Aw, I told her it was the fellow she's engaged to," he said.—Harper's Weekly.

Of Course.

"Rodeo, you mustn't forget to attend the official meeting this afternoon."

"What's it for?"

"We are going to double the capital stock of the company."

"To double it? Great Scott! Where is the money to come from?"

"From the public, of course. Where did you suppose?"

DECAYED STARCH.

A Food Problem.

An Asheville man tells how right food did that which medicines had failed to accomplish:

"For more than 15 years," he says, "I was afflicted with stomach trouble and intestinal indigestion, gas forming in stomach and bowels and giving me great distress. These conditions were undoubtedly due to the starch food I ate, white bread, potatoes, etc., and didn't digest. I grew worse with time, till 2 years ago, I had an attack which the doctor diagnosed as appendicitis. When the surgeon operated on me, however, it was found that my trouble was ulcer of the pancreas, instead of appendicitis."

"Since that time I have had several such attacks, suffering death, almost. The last attack was about 3 months ago, and I endured untold agonies."

"The doctor then said that I would have to eat less starch stuff, so I began the use of Grape-Nuts food, for I knew it to be pre-digested, and have continued same with most gratifying results. It has built me up wonderfully. I gained 10 pounds in the first 8 weeks that I used Grape-Nuts, my general health is better than ever before, my brain is clearer and my nerves stronger."

"For breakfast and dinner, each, I take 4 teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts with cream, a small slice of dry toast, an egg soft boiled and a cup of Postum, and I make the evening meal on Grape-Nuts and cream alone—this gives me a good night's rest and I am well again."

MARION'S BRIGADE

By MAJOR J. H. ROBINSON

CHAPTER XVI.—(Continued.)

The parties passed on, leaving the faithful sentinel to finish his nap, and soon had a line view of the loyal rendezvous.

"Now we have them before us," observed Henderson, "and a merry set of fellows they seem to be. Everything seems to be in abundance. I can see a large number of horses, and yonder is an officer of rank—Col. Ferguson, probably."

"And that man near him is Cyrus Dix, doubtless, the same mentioned by Miss Forstall," returned Henderson.

"A little to the right of the two officers, I observe a tent with a guard stationed around it."

"There are prisoners in the tent, perhaps," suggested Frank.

"Hush!" whispered his companion, pressing Forstall's arm. "The man I take to be Col. Ferguson and the other, whom you suppose to be Dix, are approaching us. Down, down upon the ground, close, close as you can lie! They're coming nearer than I could wish, but never mind, we'll trust to luck."

Forstall and Henderson sunk to the earth and lay prone and still; while Ferguson and Dix advanced until within a few yards of them, conversing diligently.

"I think the plan will do very well," remarked Ferguson.

"I certainly hope so, colonel, for I am greatly attached to the girl," replied Dix.

"You could not probably appear in a more interesting character than that of a benefactor," added the officer.

"Very true, colonel, for Kate Martin idolizes her father," said Dix.

"You have only to step forward, then, at the proper moment and befriend her, to win her eternal gratitude. If you have not already secured her esteem," replied Ferguson.

"The affair may be very well managed in this way: In the morning you can repair to Mr. Martin's, seemingly ignorant that the peace of the family has in any way been disturbed. You will become indignant when you hear the story from the rosy lips of your enchantress. In the midst of your virtuous fury you will hear the bugles of my detachment, and upon looking from the window, will see me leading the house with my prisoner seated on horseback in the midst of us, securely guarded. In a moment you rush from the dwelling, and unsheathing your sword, plant yourself in the road directly in front of us, and swear by all that is great and praiseworthy, that we shall ride over your body, if we advance, unless we release the prisoner without harming his sacred person."

"Won't something like this do?" said Dix, drawing his weapon with a theatrical flourish.

"Hold, forbear! If you see me in the name of justice and humanity, release that venerable man! Hold, I say!"

"Very good," replied the colonel; and then both laughed immoderately. "I, of course, will release the rebel; the daughter will fall at your feet and invoke all manner of blessings upon your magnanimous soul. Then she is yours for life."

"Hold! forbear, in the king's name!" exclaimed Dix, going through with his part again, and once more indulging in a burst of boisterous laughter.

"You show you some acting, more of fact than that fine fellow!" said Forstall, in a whisper.

"The surest way to a damsel's heart is to play the hero," resumed Ferguson; "and you will certainly appear a real one, a Christian, philanthropist and soldier, all combined."

The parties now turned and walked from the spot where Forstall and Henderson were concealed, Dix occasionally stopping to go through with his part of the projected farce, an operation that did not fail to provoke a fresh burst of merriment.

"It's time for us to be going," said Henderson, in an agitated voice, when the colonel and his companion had passed from hearing. "I have heard and seen enough."

The two young men arose and returned to the brigade, with the observation of the same cautiousness that had characterized their going forth.

CHAPTER XVII.

Forstall related to the general in as brief and appropriate a manner as possible what he had seen and heard; while Henderson stood by with sullen brow, biting his nether lip with impatience.

"I perceive," observed Marion with a smile, "that our friend Henderson is burning to chastise Dix for his audacity in aspiring to the hand of the peerless Kate."

Forstall and Henderson returned to the ranks, and Capt. Hawes' company and a part of Capt. Logan's were selected to make the first attack upon the Loyalists. Capt. Nick was highly pleased with this arrangement. Unsuspecting their sabers, the men moved quickly forward, headed by Gen. Marion in person.

When the detachment had crossed the brook a momentary halt was ordered and the leader addressed a few words of encouragement to his brave followers. He reminded them of what they had already accomplished and the influence their gallant conduct was exercising throughout South Carolina.

"Jones' coil is dancin' up and down agin," whispered Higgins to Capt. Nick.

"He means to disgrace himself," said the captain.

"Let each man do his best," added Marion, "and in ten minutes our enemies will be flying from the field, or fertilizing it with their blood." Marion's eyes sparkled with animation, and his sword flashed in the pale beams of the newly risen moon.

Touching his horse with his armed heel, he bent forward in the saddle, and his noble charger shot away toward the camp fire of the enemy, followed by stern and resolute men who feared not the brunt of battle nor the thunder of war.

"Come on, you rascals!" cried Hawes. "Give it to 'em unspeakable. Make 'em think all nature has burst and chaos has come agin, knocking all temporary concerns into eternal smash! Rare up! Swing your cuttin' instruments!"

Frank Forstall noticed as they swept on that quiet Job Dawson was in his place beside Ben Rowan. His great horse was snorting and plunging and champing the steel bit as if impatient to mingle in the melee.

"What a furious beast!" remarked Frank to Ben.

"Just such another humbug as his rider," remarked Rowan tartly.

During this time Dawson sat easily and gracefully in his saddle, his monster sabre swinging at his side.

"If you don't intend to fight, Mr. Dawson, there's still a chance for you to get from the ranks," said Forstall.

"I am a man of peace," replied Job, "but the man Francis hath commanded me to go up to battle, and I go as a sheep to the slaughter, and as a lamb dumb before the shearer."

There was no time for further conversation, for they were now close upon the Tory rendezvous, and their speed had increased to a wild and furious gallop. Marion's terrible war cry rang out with startling energy upon the air, "Liberty or death!" It fell upon the ears of the Loyalists like a dread summons to the eternal world. They sprang toward their horses, but before half the ranks were in the saddle Marion had reached them and blasted their forming ranks like the destroying lightning of heaven. Those heavy sabers came down, cleaving skulls, heaving bodies with frightful gashes, and lopping off limbs. Loud cries of terror, dreadful wails of agony, fiendish yells of rage, the flashing of swords, the discharging of firearms and the thunder of horses' hoofs shook the field of conflict.

Ferguson shouted to his dragoons to rally round him and disperse the rebels. Some heard and attempted to obey, while many sought safety in flight.

Forstall had resolved to mark the bearing of those about him in the hour of battle, especially of Dawson and Henderson. The latter he now saw galloping from one part of the field to another in search of Cyrus Dix. As for Dawson, he had kept near him until he had charged through the enemy, at which time he observed that his mammoth steed was in advance of all others, and growing more furious every moment, but the rider was still self-possessed. Ben Rowan perceived that the Quaker was foremost, and resolving not to be outdone, spurred madly after him, and Frank initiated his example.

Ferguson's dragoons had hastily formed in the rear of the broken line; their muskets now bristled in the faces of Capt. Logan's company, and Job Dawson seemed rushing madly upon their gleaming points.

Forstall wondered whether he saw them or whether his horse was urging him on against his will. He saw Job grasp his sabre and rise in his stirrups; the next moment a sheet of flame and a stream of lead leaped from the ranks of Ferguson's dragoons and Dawson was enveloped in smoke and hidden from view. Frank involuntarily exclaimed: "Poor Job!"

and never expected to see him again; but the stern and bloody work now before him engaged all his attention, for Ferguson's men made an obstinate resistance.

The next glimpse which he caught of Dawson revealed him fighting desperately over Ben Rowan, whose horse had fallen, and he was now struggling to extricate himself. A half dozen dragoons had closed around him, and he was fighting with his sabre and bayonets.

Job Dawson's horse pressed furiously among the dragoons, kicking, rearing and plunging, until he planted his mighty body directly over Rowan's fallen steed, and laying back his ears, snorting and shaking his mane, he was almost as much an object of terror as Job himself, whose sabre beat down leveled bayonets and circling swords, and sheathed itself in palpitating flesh.

"Inexplicable man!" cried Forstall, as he pressed his own foaming horse to the side of the Quaker; others followed, and the fight raged over Ben Rowan's head, but the proud, defiant breast of the mammoth horse and Dawson's terrible sabre protected him from instant death by sword or bayonet.

"Straighten up, you rascal critters! Strike hard, I tell you!" shouted Capt. Nick, and the "Fire Eaters" burst upon those who yet resisted, in smoke and in flame. Ferguson gave way, and Marion's reserve thundering into action; the brief battle became a terrible rout on the part of the Tories. The shrill voice of Marion was heard calling on the fugitives to surrender; some threw down their arms and complied, and others kept on, were overtaken and cut down.

Forstall paused an instant and looked over the field; John Henderson was still galloping madly from place to place, seeking Cyrus Dix.

In this engagement many prisoners were made; several stand of arms, and quite a number of horses changed hands. Mr. Martin was restored to liberty, and Dix was spared the trouble of acting in the comedy of the hero.

After the brief contest was ended a strong guard was set, and the victors encamped on the field where the stirring scenes of the action had transpired.

Ben Rowan, considerably bruised by his fall, was placed in a tent. While he was reflecting profoundly on the recent occurrences, Forstall and Henderson entered, and were soon after followed by Job Dawson and James Adair. The light of the blazing fire as it flitted over the former's features revealed no change in his appearance. The eye was still mild, the expression about the mouth gentle, and his bearing quiet and unobtrusive.

When he bowed to Forstall and Henderson there was something strangely fascinating in the smile that lingered for an instant about his lips.

Ben Rowan did not seem to notice as he came in, bending his tall form he passed to the most obscure corner of the tent, and without unbuckling his sabre, threw himself upon the ground. The boxer looked steadily in another direction for a time, and then gradually changing his position, began to cast furtive glances at the Quaker. It would have been exceedingly difficult to analyze the expression of Ben's face at that precise phase in his existence. Both Forstall and Henderson mentally determined that no reasonable conclusion could be arrived at in regard to what was passing within by attempting to study such a blank looking countenance. If any inference could be possibly drawn, it was that Rowan's ideas had been thrown into inexplicable confusion, and could not be formed again in order.

"After the excitement of the last hour I find it impossible to sleep," said Henderson.

"I labor under a similar feeling," replied Frank.

"Let us walk in the open air," added the first speaker quietly.

To this proposal Frank readily assented and mutilated upon the ground.

"These poor fellows sleep soundly enough," remarked Henderson, pointing to several inanimate bodies that lay hacked and mutilated upon the ground.

"Is it not lamentable that the passions of men work out such accomplished horrors as these?" Forstall said.

"Lamentable indeed; and yet war has prevailed in all countries, and in all ages of which we have any history."

"Very true," said a voice near them; "and yet you would not argue that the fact furnishes us any excuse or justification for the barbarous practice of war?"

Henderson turned toward the speaker and recognized Mr. Martin.

"You are right, reverend sir; I would not."

"I find it impossible to content myself here until the morning," added the pastor. "It may not be perfectly safe to attempt to return home; but I know my friends are deeply and sleeplessly anxious for my safety."

"I can very well understand the nature of your feelings," said Henderson; "yet I doubt whether you could safely return to the other settlement at this hour; for you might possibly fall into the hands of our Loyalist friends again, in which event, I fear you would fare worse than in the first instance."

"There is a small footpath through the woods to the settlement, which I can find, I doubt not, and which is but half the distance of the usual way; by following that, I do not think I incur much risk," returned Martin.

"If you are resolved to go, I will accompany you," said Henderson.

"And I also," added Frank.

Mr. Martin expressed his gratitude for these kind offers, and the parties immediately set out for the settlement. After some searching, the footpath was discovered, and the glimmering moonlight guided them on their way.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"I shall be sure to inform Mrs. Martin and Kate, that your sabre severed my hands, and your lips told me that I was no longer a prisoner," said the pastor.

Had the features of Henderson been seen distinctly at that moment, we doubt not but it would have been observed that his color was much heightened. The thought of having his name favorably mentioned in the presence of Kate caused his brave heart to expand with pleasure.

"The credit is due to Gen. Marion and the brigade," he answered, modestly, with some hesitation.

"Can you tell me anything of the fate of Cyrus Dix? Did you see him in the strife?" inquired Mr. Martin.

"Our gallant companion sought the Loyalist in every part of the field," remarked Forstall; "and had he found him, his career of hypocrisy would have closed forever."

Frank then related to Mr. Martin the purport of the conversation they had heard between Dix and Ferguson. The worthy man was greatly shocked at the narration, and appeared deeply grateful that such artful villainy had been frustrated.

The parties passed through the wood without accident, and the pastor's real desire to see some vague idea of what was passing near the door, and bright lights gleamed from within.

"Rather a late hour for visitors," remarked Mr. Martin. "But I think I know the horse. Eavesdropping will be no sin, I imagine, in this instance; let us approach without noise and listen," he added.

The pastor's suggestion was acted upon, and the trio walked forward, and placed themselves near the windows from whence the light was reflected. Henderson appeared to have some vague idea of what was transpiring within, and what kind of a visitor was there; for he was quite pale and nervous. The voice of Cyrus Dix was distinctly heard. He was talking earnestly.

"We have been terribly cut up," he said. "Marion has made a sweep at us and scattered and withered our fellows like autumn leaves."

THE BIRD OF DEATH.

It is the Only Venomous Member of the Feathered Tribe.

Among all the thousands of feathered creatures classified by the trained ornithologists but one, the raptor noob, or "bird of death," is known to be venomous. This queer and deadly species of the winged and feathered tribe is a native of the island of Papua, or New Guinea. The bird is described as being about the size of a common tame pigeon, of gray plumage and a tall, of extraordinary length, ending in a tip of brilliant scarlet red. It is a marsh bird and is found to inhabit only the immense stagnant pools adjoining the lakes of the interior of the island. The raptor has a hooked beak as sharp as a cock's spur and hollow. The venom with which it inoculates is distilled in a set of organs which nature has provided for that purpose and which lie in the upper mandible, just below the openings of the nostrils. Under this poison secreting laboratory in the roof of the mouth is a small fleshy knob. When the bird gets its beak in the flesh of a victim passing the knob receives a pressure which liberates the venom and inoculates the wound. No man, native or otherwise, was ever known to recover from a bite inflicted by a raptor noob. The suffering in such cases is said to be much more agonizing than in cases of rattlesnake and Gila monster bites.

Instant Recognition.

"Doesn't the speaker recognize you?"

"The minute I got on my feet," answered the new congressman, "he recognized me as one of the people he doesn't want to hear from."—Washington Star.

ILLINOIS STATE NEWS

GETS A SALARY OF $2,700.

School Treasurer of East St. Louis Must Give Up Stipend.

A scandal in the public schools of East St. Louis has been disclosed through the action of State Superintendent Bayless in advising County Superintendent Charles Hettel of St. Clair county that unless the school trustees of East St. Louis immediately abolish the salary of $2,700 a year paid to the township school treasurer that city's portion of the State distributive fund will be withheld. In no other county in Illinois does the office of school treasurer receive so large a salary. In Chicago, Springfield, Quincy, and other large cities, as well as practically all the smaller ones, the school treasurer serves without remuneration, although he is generally allowed the interest paid on the daily balances of funds. In Belleville the school treasurer is paid $900 a year. This is the highest remuneration paid to a similar officer in the State outside of East St. Louis, and it is understood that Superintendent Bayless will demand that the Belleville treasurer's salary be reduced to a nominal figure as soon as the East St. Louis controversy is ended.

MINISTER IS FOUND GUILTY.

Elders Expel Pastor, Charging Him with Three Serious Offenses.

Rev. John S. Southey, formerly pastor of the Nazarene church of Peoria, was found guilty of elopement, abandonment of his family, and embezzlement. He was tried before the elders of his church, who expelled him from the organization with a bitter censure. The charge of elopement was against Miss May Shawgo, a member of his congregation, who is said to have left her home for him, but who cannot be located now. The trial of Southey was a secret. The preacher refused to be present or make a defense. He is now under indictment by the grand jury and will be tried by the Circuit Court.

MAYOR TIES UP RAILROADS.

Rock Island Official Destroys the Tracks, Delaying Trains.

The main Kansas City line of the Milwaukee road and the St. Louis-St. Paul line of the Burlington were tied up for five hours the other afternoon as the result of track tearing operations by Mayor C. W. McCaskin of Rock Island. Judge William Gess issued an injunction restraining the Mayor and the tracks were relaid immediately. Several passenger trains were delayed. McCaskin gave no explanation of his acts other than to say: "I'm going to see who owns this right of way." The tracks were torn up in two places in the district on the river front, which has been under litigation. There are no suits pending now.

KENNEDY ZINC MINES ON SALE.

Standard Oil Reported to Be After Jo Daviess County Property.

Negotiations are under way for the purchase of the Kennedy zinc mines in Jo Daviess county by interests said to be allied with the Standard Oil Company, taking in the Standard Oil Company, the price said to be agreed upon being $3,000,000. Former Postmaster F. E. Coyne of Chicago has visited the mines several times and it is understood that he is negotiating the deal, which, if consummated, will be the most important in mining circles that has occurred in the Mississippi valley in years. The mines were owned by the late William Kennedy, and to settle the estate the mines were placed on the market.

RAIN CAUSES A LANDSLIDE.

Part of Chester Moves Forty Feet Toward River.

Owing to heavy rain a large tract of ground detached itself from the hills and slid down toward the river at Chester, taking with it a 200-foot section of the main street leading to the court house, four frame dwellings, all occupied, and a blacksmith shop. The movement of the earth caused great consternation among the occupants of the houses, who hurriedly moved out. No one was injured. One of the houses is forty feet nearer the river than before the slide.

ILLINOIS OPERATORS SIGN.

Two Mineowners Are Reported to Have Granted 3003 Seals.

At the headquarters of the United Mine Workers in Springfield it was announced that two members of the Illinois Operators' Association had signed the scale of 1903, but the officials refused to give out the names. At the operators' headquarters it was said nothing was known of any defection in the ranks of the operators, but it was admitted that a few men were likely to weaken. Reports received by the miners indicate that a large number of independents will pay the scale.

OLD BANK AT PEKIN CLOSED.

Ties Smith & Co., with Debts of $400,000, in Hands of Trustee.

The private bank of Ties Smith & Co. in Peoria, with liabilities of $400,000 and assets of $250,000, was closed Monday and placed in the hands of U. J. Albertson as trustee for liquidation. Shrinkage of deposits and large loans to the T. & H. Smith & Co. wagon works are given as the reasons for the failure. The bank was founded in 1890, and formerly was considered one of the soundest in that part of the State.

GAMBLING OUTFITS BURNED.

Bonfire at Shelbyville, Attracts Big Crowd.

Three poker tables, two dice tables, thirty-nine packs of cards, a check rack and a large quantity of poker chips were destroyed in a bonfire in front of police headquarters at Shelbyville. The gambling paraphernalia was confiscated in raids made by two squads of officers. The burning of the gambling outfits attracted a large crowd.

State News in Brief.

Andrew Bruner, the 11-year-old son of A. M. Bruner, State secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was drowned in Fox river, Elgin, by his boat overturning.

Melvin, a village of 400 population, has had an epidemic of appendicitis during the past six months, twenty-three operations having been performed.

Richard Washington, a paroled convict from Chester penitentiary, attempted to kill James Raymond in Jacksonville. Raymond went on Washington's parole paper in 1890.

The dead body of Mrs. Sarah Loezy was found in her bed at the home of Dr. J. W. Ducomb at Beckmeyer, where she was visiting. She was in apparent good health when she retired.

The bodies of the three priests who served St. Mary's church in the early days of Elgin were exhumed from beneath the old church and will be buried May 8, when Bishop Muldoon will be present.

Hans Peterson of Dundee is in prison at San Luis Potosi, Mexico, charged with a crime committed by another man, and unless he is released speedily his friends will appeal to the government at Washington.

While a Big Four passenger train was held an hour at Muncie, near Urbana, a baby boy was born to Mrs. G. L. Robyns, a young Kentucky woman who was traveling from Maysville, Ky., to Urbana, to join her husband.

After he had been missing for three hours the body of 4-year-old Henry Marositz was found with its feet sticking out of a rain barrel in the back yard of his home in Chicago. The youngster had climbed to the barrel, fallen in and was drowned.

President R. R. McCormick of the sanitary district of Chicago, through District Attorney Frank Quinn, has filed motions for a change of venue from Judge T. N. Green, in the seventeen damage suits pending against the district in Peoria county, alleging prejudice.

The trustees of the Ties, Smith & Co. bank at Pekin reported to the depositors that the liabilities are $682,750 and the assets $554,068. As a large part of the assets are of doubtful value it is not believed the depositors will receive more than 40 per cent of their claims.

Owing to the bitter and close contest between James R. Baker and J. L. Fidler for the Republican nomination for sheriff of Douglas county the novel method of drawing straws was pursued to bring about the withdrawal of one of the aspirants. Mr. Baker drew the losing straw.

Bruce D. Ellis, 30 years old, a cager in the new Burr coal mine in Cartersville, was crushed to death by an ascending mine elevator. He attempted to adjust the car after signaling "all right" to the engineer on top. He came from St. Louis about two years ago and leaves a wife and one child.

"Jap" Smith, charged with manslaughter in connection with the wreck of the Santa Fe California limited at Chubbuck on Jan. 29, was acquitted in the Circuit Court in Peoria on instruction from the court. Smith admitted negligence, but the court ruled that the negligence of Conductor George Wetherwax on No. 6, which was subsequent to that of Smith, was the direct cause of the collision and that under the law this was a sufficient defense.

In Brockton, Mass., Master in Probate Warren Goodard filed his report of the estate of Susanna Murdock. By his finding about $200,000 will go to Benjamin F. Ellis of Peoria. An heir to one-third of the whole estate would be Amiel Murdock, if living, but the master finds that he is dead, nothing having been heard of him since shortly after the Civil War. Amiel Murdock's wife now lives in Chicago, but as she had no children, she cannot receive any of the estate.

Members of the Alumni Association of Elgin academy and the Old Settlers' Picnic Association of Kane county are planning to hold an "Old Home" week in Elgin, beginning June 17. At that time the golden jubilee in commemoration of fifty years' existence of the academy will be held. On June 25 the annual old settlers' picnic will be celebrated. Plans are now on foot to combine the two. Many of the old settlers are numbered among the 2,500 members of the alumni.

For the 310th time in twenty years Mrs. Stella Fry, 45 years of age, was arraigned in court in Chicago the other day. She was fined $15 and costs by Justice Dooley in the Desplaines street police court on a charge of vagrancy. The only charge ever made against her was vagrancy. "My husband deserted me twenty years ago and eloped with an actress," she told Justice Dooley. "I took to drink and became a vagrant. I was fined about 200 times, sums ranging from the costs to $50 and costs. My brother, Arthur C. Kelley, is a doctor in Alton."

Elgin is about to start a crusade against all automobile speeders. The Elgin ordinances limit the speed of the machines to less than six miles an hour in the business districts, and to four miles turning corners. With the advent of warm weather the local auto owners have come out in full force and have begun to ignore the city laws. Marshal James W. Younger issued a statement to the local papers that he would cause his men to arrest any and all violators, and that he would hold them to the strict letter of the law.

Because his father had informed him that his wife was not at home when he called at his residence, T. Edward Elgin shot himself at his saloon in Peoria. The elder Elgin made a social call on his daughter-in-law, but found no one at home. He went to his son's saloon and asked his son where his wife was. At this Elgin got insanely jealous, and, denouncing his wife as unfaithful, went to a drawer, and taking out a revolver shot and inflicted wounds from which he died at the Cottage hospital. His widow was not yet heard from.

BOOST FOR CITY OWNERSHIP.

Democrat in Springfield Who Runs on Issue, Carries G. O. P. Ward.

The cause of municipal ownership received a great impetus in Springfield when Frank H. Bode, a Democrat who made his race on the ownership platform, was elected Alderman in the Fifth Ward, which has gone two to one for the Republican ticket for the last twenty years.

The Democrats scored heavily all over the city, electing besides Bode the following Aldermen: J. J. Rathbone, J. H. O'Brien, Gus Fehr and J. H. McCreery. The Republicans elected are S. H. Teyman, Nels Allen and R. A. Higgins. The Democrats also carried Capitol township. Results in other Illinois municipal elections were reported as follows: The Liberal party made a clean sweep of the election in Galesburg over the United Citizens' party, electing eight Aldermen, their platform calling for 90-cent gas. In the township they gained another victory, electing an assessor and three supervisors. By the election of six out of seven Aldermen on the good government ticket in Belleville the continuation of the uniform license adopted by the last Council will be assured. Out of seven Aldermen in Rock Island the Republicans captured five, the Democrats electing the other two.

DOCTOR HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

Imprisoned in Buggy When Horse Falls Into Deep Hole.

Dr. J. N. Schapp of Alton almost lost his life, as well as the life of his horse, while driving to the home of a patient near East Alton. While making a crossing east of the Big Four railroad yards at East Alton, the horse plunged into a hole fifteen feet across and about twelve feet deep, and the buggy and its occupant followed. The buggy was equipped with a storm front, and Dr. Schapp found himself in a sort of diving bell. He managed to spring the storm door open and get out of the vehicle into the water, however. Then he swam around, unbiting the traces and holdback straps, and finally got the animal free from the buggy, but could not get it out of the hole. He had been in the ice-cold water for thirty minutes or more, and was chilled to the bone before he got out of the hole.

ENCOURAGES BIG FAMILIES.

Desplaines Man Offers Prizes to Mothers of Ten or More Children.

There will be no race suicide in the village of Desplaines if Henry B. Powell, one of its wealthiest residents, can help it. Stirred by the assertion of President Roosevelt that the great American people are dying out, Mr. Powell has offered prizes and medals for families of ten children and more. Mr. Powell himself modestly admits he has helped some by being an eight-time father and he thinks his example should be followed by all the married men of the village. The lowest prize—that for ten children—is gold medal and $10 in gold. From that the prizes run up to $50. The prizes are to be presented to the mothers only.

UNCLE SAM AIDS ILLINOIS.

Rural Letter Carriers Will Make Reports for Good Roads Board.

The Postoffice Department has agreed to co-operate with the Illinois State highway commission in its efforts to improve the wagon roads of that State by furnishing the commission, through rural letter carriers, information concerning the general condition of roads traversed, the length and location thereof, the number of road drags in use, the general effect produced by the use of road drags, and whether better or quicker service is possible as a result of their use.

COURTHOUSE DEBT GROWS.

Coles County Taxpayers Now Liable for $220,569.44.

Coles county's now famous court house indebtedness has reached the sum of $220,569.44, according to the report of the expert accountants who were employed by the board of supervisors to examine the books and make an itemized statement. A committee composed of Supervisors Roulbush, Wickham and O'Hair met and decided that as the new board of supervisors takes office on April 20 it was the best plan to let the new body call a bond election.

STEEL PLANT FORCED TO CLOSE.

Republic Company's Branch in East St. Louis First to Act.

The Republic Steel Company suspended operations in East St. Louis with the announcement that its action is due to the impending coal strike. The plant uses 500 cars of anthracite a month and employs 1,500 men. Having no facilities for storing a large amount of coal, it

M. Witte of Russia, has held a very difficult position but he has the advantage of the Czar inasmuch as he can reign.

The Smithfield ham has long been famous but the beef trust has not yet come around to putting "Garfield hams" on the market.

The New Jersey legislature has appropriated $350,000 for fighting mosquitoes thus putting in a questionable light the summer resort managers who advertise that there are no mosquitoes in New Jersey.

Senator Platt is enthusiastically in favor of reducing the amount of public matter turned out by the government. The express companies which he represents in the senate have never been given the contract to distribute it.

Dr. Parkhurst says there is an alarming decadence in positive authority in this country. He would change his mind if he were to watch the lower house of Congress for awhile and see the positive authority of Uncle Joe Cannon.

J. Pierpont Morgan has paid fifty thousand dollars for a collection of manuscripts of Poe Burns. Still he is no better off as far knowledge of poetry is concerned than the man who buys a copy at forty cents or borrows it from the Carnegie library.

Three ship loads of immigrants arrived at Baltimore Saturday and broke all records for the increase of our population in one day. As most of them were from Germany it is probable that Baltimore will experience an increase in the saloon business soon.

Sara Bernhardt was compelled to play in a tent in Texas because of the theatre syndicate which closed the houses to her. In Canada the populace turned out and pelted her with old eggs because she criticised the Canadians. Evidently Sarah has hit on a better advertising scheme than that of having her diamonds stolen.

The figures go to show that the coal miners have been getting high wages as compared with former years and the operators have been making larger percentages of profit than ever before. Nevertheless a strike has been declared and it is the consumer who must pay the bills while the miner and operator divide the profit.

There is every reason to believe that those who have looked for canal legislation at this session of Congress are to be disappointed. The opinion grows that the interminable making of testimony is only a part of a consistent policy of delay and obstruction. The senate is now popularly known as "The House of Deliberation" and it is likely to justify its name in the Canal matter. There has really been no progress in Canal affairs since the vacillations between Panama and Nicaragua were settled for all time by Mark Hanna and the grave discussions between the lock and sea level types are really a sort of a dead lock with the senate as much at sea as ever as to which is to be chosen. In the meantime sentiment is growing in favor of individual responsibility as opposed to responsibility vested commissions and even yet stronger approval of doing the work of construction by contract.

Mr. Benjamin F. Barnes Assistant Secretary at the White House has been appointed city Postmaster in Washington. His appointment was made by the President without consulting any one in Washington or elsewhere and the oldest paper in the city is in a state of great indignation claiming it an outrage, a subversion of local rights, sensibilities and so forth. It was doubtless refreshing to the president to be able to appoint one person thoroughly known and tried by himself and with out the annoyance of having to listen to the tiresome recommendations of a dozen rival candidates. Mr. Barnes had forced upon him an unenviable notoriety because some weeks ago it was necessary for him to call upon the police to remove from the White House a boisterous and recalcitrant but well dressed woman. This Washington paper with Senator Tillman of South Carolina and Congressman Shepard of Texas tried very hard to make a National issue of this incident utterly with out significance. Mr. Barnes will doubtless make an excellent postmaster. He is known and esteemed by Postmaster General Cortelyou who was associated with him when he was secretary to the president. They were long together in the White House and will now again be under the same roof for the city postoffice is situated in the same massive building known as the United States Postoffice Department.

GEORGE B. STEPHENS.

George Stephens, candidate for the republican nomination for treasurer, subject to the will of the coming republican primaries, which take place April 28, is a native born Illinoisian. He was born at Homer, Will county, November 15, 1848, and since 1853 has always lived in Lake county.

Mr. Stephens served several terms as president of the Millburn Mutual Fire

Insurance Co., which was organized in 1855 and which is a strong local insurance concern.

He received his education in Lake county schools and since 1871 has been engaged in farming in Newport township. He has always been prominent in republican politics and served three terms on the board of supervisors, being elected chairman of that organization twice, serving as well as chairman of the Lake county board of review.

Chronic Bronchitis Cured.

"For ten years I had chronic bronchitis so bad that at times I could not speak above a whisper," writes Mr. Joseph Coffman, of Montmorenci, Ind. "I tried all remedies available but with no success. Fortunately my employer suggested that I try Foley's Honey and Tar. Its effect was almost miraculous, and I am now cured of the disease. On my recommendation many people have used Foley's Honey and Tar and always with satisfaction. Sold by J. H. Swan.

FIFTY CENTS

IN some conditions the gain from the use of Scott's Emulsion is very rapid. For this reason we put up a fifty-cent size, which is enough for an ordinary cough or cold or useful as a trial for babies and children. In other conditions the gain is slower—health cannot be built up in a day. In such cases Scott's Emulsion must be taken as nourishment; a food rather than a medicine. It's a food for tired and weak digestions.

Cures For the "Blues."

One woman said she had two cures for the "blues"—that mysterious affliction common to every woman and a few men. One was to put on her silk petticoat and best clothes; or if she hadn't anything very new, go out and buy some unnecessary frippery, such as a becoming tulle ruchoe, an adorable hat, or a new necklace. Thus attired, the second part of the cure was to sail recklessly into an expensive tearoom, an eating place forbidden by her purse, and entirely unnecessary on days of good cheer—and order the biggest, choicest, costliest luncheon the bill of fare provided. "It's an expensive cure," she said; "but it never fails to work like a charm."

It stops the pain. Sold by J. H. Swan.

CHRISTIAN T. HEYDECKER.

Christian T. Heydecker was born at Wadsworth, this county, in 1840, attended the common school and became a successful teacher, afterward reading law in the offices of Hon. E. P. Perry, who later became governor of Washington, and Hon. E. M. Haines, one of the best known men of the early day of Lake county.

On March 17, 1870, he was admitted to the bar and at once entered upon the practice of law in Waukegan. From that date his sign has continued to swing in the breeze.

He was in attendance upon several sessions of the Illinois legislature and during two sessions was speaker's clerk.

In 1890 he was elected to the office of state attorney for this county. In 1892 and again in 1896 he received the nominations unanimously to that office by the republican party by acclamation. Upon retiring from that office he continued the practice of law. In the thirty-five years of practice he feels that he has had enough experience to fit him for the office of county judge to which he now aspires. He is well known throughout the county by the young and old voters. He has taken part in every presidential campaign and states that he cast his first vote for Grant in 1868 and his last for Theodore Roosevelt.

In national politics he has always been a republican. He is a candidate for the nomination of the republican party for county judge at the primary election to be held April 28. If nominated and elected his friends feel his long experience before the Lake county bar will be of great service to him in the duties of that important position and believe that his past record will be a guarantee for the confidence reposed in him by the voters of the county.

HAD KNOWLEDGE OF MEDICINE.

Comprehensive Treatise Written by Egyptian 7,000 Years Ago.

A roll of papyrus acquired by Dr. Ebers, in the vicinity of Thebes, Egypt, in the winter of 1872, from an Arab who made ancient grave robbing a business, after investigation and translation was deposited in the library of the University of Leipzig. The script of this papyrus is hieratic; the date of it is said to be over 7,000 years ago. It is a comprehensive treatise on medicine. Diseases of the abdomen, the chest, the heart, the eyes, the ears and so on are carefully arranged and described in a manner that would command respect at the present day. For instance, of the heart, the papyrus classifies the troubles as fatty degeneration, dilatation, carditis, angina or spasm, hypertrophy (enlargement), thrombosis (plugging) and dropsy. Of medicines over seven hundred different substances are enumerated and they are prescribed in pills, in tablets, in capsules, in decoctions, powders, inhalations, lotions, ointments, plasters.

She Had Dressed in Haats.

A smartly-frocked young woman created a small-sized sensation among diners at a Broadway table d'hôte specialty house the other night because of her bewitching beauty. Her visibly proud, but homely escort had assisted the fair one to divest her fur coat, and both immediately engaged in engrossing conversation. It was observed that folks seated at adjoining tables in the rear focussed their gaze on milady's back.

The X-ray silk waist, which was one of the extreme peek-a-boo brand, was intended to be buttoned at the back. As a result of the evident haste in dressing, the garment was only fastened at the collar and waist line, revealing a broad expanse of flesh tint. Clearly this oversight caused the object of such unwonted attention no inconvenience through back draughts or otherwise; hence she remained in blissful ignorance of the situation. And not one of the laughing sisterhood went to her assistance.—New York Press.

Brazilian Pebbles.

Brazilian pebble is a name given to large masses of particularly transparent quartz or rock crystal, which is most abundantly found in Brazil, although material quite as good occurs somewhat sparingly in Switzerland and Madagascar. As regards transparency and hardness the Brazilian pebble was far superior to the best product of the old glass makers, but the modern glass is quite as good as the crystal. In fact the mineral is now little used, and the name persists mainly as a trade epithet intended to express superior quality. Good glass for lenticular purposes is now made in the United States; but the best, such as would be employed in astronomical and microscopic work, still comes from France and Germany.

Sounds of Words Necessary.

In ordinary practice writing is a device to bring to mind sounds which are well known. Unless the sounds are well known, or can be made known by other means, the written characters fall both to convey them to those who study them or in preserving them after the language of which they are a part has vanished. The written characters which represent the ancient languages are easily translated by the scholar, but the sounds are lost. Were the old orators to come to life again the language in which they would declaim would, in all probability, be unintelligible.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Silence Well Paid For.

In a certain village church the congregation had been greatly disturbed during the singing of the hymns by a certain set of women who would persistently gossip in a loud tone.

At last the minister devised a plan to stop this disturbance.

At a given signal by him every one in the choir was to stop singing abruptly.

So, during the singing of a hymn he gave the signal—at this every one stopped singing.

One of the offenders who was unable to check herself was heard to say in a loud tone, "I always fry mine in lard."

"As we now know," announced the minister, "that she always fries hers in lard, we will proceed with the singing." And there was silence after that.

Sized Up by "Tom" Pool.

Throughout the village of Annisquam, Mass., no greater joker can be found than Thomas S. Pool, an old-time fisherman and a veteran of the civil war. On being told of the intended entrance into the fishing industry of a firm composed of two young fellows, neither of whom had much money to start with, "Tom" remarked: "I've heard tell of people standin' on nothin' an' pickin' holes in the wind, and, b'gosh, I guess them fellers will come putty near doin' it."

A Sick Room Hint.

If hot applications are required for a person taken suddenly ill, when the fire is out and there is no better convenience for heating at hand, a lamp chimney fills the breach admirably. Light the lamp full head and in a twinkling the chimney is hot and ready for use when wrapped in a woolen cloth. A stove lid answers the same purpose when the fire has been retained.

Republican Candidate for Co Judge.

Perry L. Persons, candidate for the republican nomination for County Judge, is a native of Lake county; was born in Newport township, lived in Warren township several years and now lives in Waukegan. After completing his education in the high schools of Waukegan and Hyde Park, and at Chicago University, he completed a course in the law department of Lake Forest University; spent two years in the office Judge Francis E. Clarke, now deceased, and since being admitted to the bar has practiced law in Waukegan.

He is a prominent figure in republican politics in Waukegan, having served as Police Magistrate, and having been elected City Attorney in 1893 and re-elected City Attorney in 1905, after a spirited contest in each case, not only at the republican primaries but at the elections. He is now serving his second term as City Attorney and his record in that office has been excellent.

His wide experience in that office, combined with his private law practice, has made him familiar with all branches of the law, and has well qualified him to fill the office of County Judge to which he now aspires, the duties and responsibilities of which he keenly appreciates. His duties in Waukegan, combined with the demands upon his time from his private practice, prevent him from making as active a canvass through the county as he desires, but his many friends feel that in view of his ability, energy and fitness for the office of County Judge, his candidacy will meet with strong support throughout the county.

Mr. Persons is a genial, courteous gentleman, and while the younger men in politics are enthusiastic in his support, he being the youngest of the four candidates for County Judge, no one, young or old, will make a mistake in voting for him.

In his home life he is pleasantly situated, living at 416 Grand avenue, his family consisting of his wife and two little daughters. Mr. Persons has a natural aversion to asking personal support in a campaign, but will be grateful for any assistance rendered him at the primaries at the usual polling places in the county. adv.94-1

GIRL QUANTINES A SHIP.

Vessel and Passengers Are Held for Ten Days in Manila Bay.

Did you ever hear how a ship of an army girl held up a ship for ten days in Manila? Well, she tells it herself. It seems that her father was commanding a regiment in the Philippines and her mother was in Manila. This girl went over to Hong-Kong on a trip, and a very enjoyable one it was. While there she received a cable from Mrs. Taft which said: "Bring me an 'amah'." Now, an 'amah' is a Chinese nurse girl. This young lady went out and engaged nine to meet her at the dock the day the ship sailed. She was a very wise young woman and guessed that most of them would not show up.

Perhaps she had lived in Washington and learned how the faithful (?) colored servant promises five times over to come the next day at 9 o'clock and is never heard of again. When the ship sailed there was one Chinese woman out of the nine on hand and our heroine took her aboard as a maid, secured quarters for her and all was lovely until the ship steamed into Manila bay. Then it was found that Chinese exclusion laws prevailed and the amah could not land. Moreover, Chinese cholera was suspected to be concealed about the amah and no one else could land.

"There we were," said the young lady, "out there in Manila bay and the whole ship load of people giving me and the amah 'hall Columbia.' I begged and pleaded with the officers to let me get off because I was missing several parties. I told them I had brought the amah for Mrs. Taft, but they said it didn't make any difference—the governor of the islands could not evade the laws. Well, they fixed it up some way. I think she came in as my personal servant or something. Anyway, after being held up ten days we were allowed to go ashore and the amah went to Mrs. Taft. But I tell you I was the most unpopular person in the island for that ten days."—New York Sun.

My doctor, from a careful analysis of the urine and a diagnosis of my case, had told me I could not live six weeks. I was struck down in the street with kidney trouble, and for a whole year could not leave the house. I lost flesh, my eyes failed me, I bloated at times, my back hurt and I suffered a living death. There seemed no hope until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Then I began to improve. The pain left gradually, the swellings subsided, I gained appetite and weight, and to make a long story short, I got well!"

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL

Chicago.

As an index of the inherent strength of trade it is remarkable that in both new demands and distribution there is no evidence of diminution, notwithstanding the expected shutdown of coal mines. Available supplies here have been augmented and, the heavy consumers of fuel being provided for, the operation of plants will suffer no immediate hindrance.

Weather conditions do not impede construction, but lack the seasonable quality necessary to advance activity in the leading retail lines. Wholesale dealings, however, remain of large aggregate and heavy shipments continue to the interior of the principal staples, while there is a good demand for farm implements, vehicles, hardware and sporting goods. Reports show a resumption of spring work on the farms, growing grains well protected by late snowfall and the outlook encouraging in the dispersion of country store merchandise.

Visiting buyers here are placing liberal orders, prompt shipment being required, and some reorders have appeared in dry goods. Mercantile collections throughout the tributary regions make a good showing and the commercial mortality is at the lowest point of any week this year.

Production of the principal industries is sustained at the greatest aggregate known and the work ahead in some departments runs into next year. The raw material markets indicate no decline in the absorption, prices being unusually strong in the metals, lumber and leather. Pig iron is seen to be in steady request and additional inquiries suggest an extending need for rails, cars and motive power.

Failures reported in Chicago district number 20, against 30 last week, and 25 a year ago.—Dun's Review of Trade.

New York. Cross currents are visible in the business situation.

Unsettled weather, making for bad roads, has been a check to consumptive spring demand, which also feels the influence of the impending coal strike. The advent of springlike weather, accompanying the former development, is, however, favorable to improvement in the coal and the hope is still expressed that the coal strike will be localized to some extent, and will not materially interfere with industry, which seems fairly well supplied with fuel. Beneath the surface happenings of the week are to be discerned the steady advance of spring trade, the continuance of the immense activity in building, with collateral heavy dealings in all kinds of lumber and material, and the underlying confidence in a heavy year's turnover in all lines. Money is strong and in active demand throughout the country. Business failures in the United States for the week ending March 20 numbered 109, against 170 last week, 227 in the like week of 1905, 212 in 1904, 145 in 1903 and 170 in 1902; for the week in Canada, eighteen, as against twenty-nine last week and twenty-nine in this week a year ago.—Bradstreet's Commercial Report.

RHEUMATISM CURED

The Disease Yielded Readily to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills After Other Treatment Failed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure rheumatism because they supply the necessary elements to the vitiated blood and enable nature to cast out the impurities and effect a cure. Mrs. A. Baker, of No. 119 Fitch street, Syracuse, N. Y., will furnish living evidence of the truth of this statement. "There has been rheumatism in my family ever since I can remember," she says. "My grandmother was a great sufferer from muscular rheumatism and my mother also had the disease in a mild form. About a year ago I had a hard cold and rheumatism caught me in my left knee. There were sharp pains, confined to the neighborhood of the knee and they seemed to go right into the bone. The pain suffered was intense and I also had dizzy spells."

The doctors called my trouble uricatic and sciatic rheumatism. When I didn't get better under their treatment my brother-in-law suggested that I try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I bought three boxes, and, by the time I had taken them, the pain and dizziness had entirely left me. I wanted to make sure of a cure so I bought three more boxes, but I didn't take quite all of them as I found that I was entirely cured."

Before I took the pills the pain was so severe that I had to cry at times and when I was cured I was so thankful and grateful and I am glad to recommend them to every one who suffers with rheumatism."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured severe cases of anemia, sciatica, nervousness, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia and St. Vitis' dance that have not responded to other modes of treatment. All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

What Father Thought.

A New York teacher of instrumental music was one day telling the father of a pupil, a lad of 10 years, of the progress made by the boy in his studies. "I think he is improving a great deal," said the professor. "He will certainly learn to play the piano."

"Is that so?" asked the father, much gratified. "I didn't know whether he was really improving or whether I was merely getting used to it."—Harper's Weekly.

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS

AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula.

Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or official names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances.

The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package.

They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup"—and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness.

Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

Old-Time Law Students.

If law students of the present day are laboring under the delusion that when the world was younger there was less law to study and more relaxation for young men of their class, let them read the following extract that an English contemporary has taken from the "Memoirs of Henri de Mesmes," descriptive of a day's work of a law student at Toulouse in the sixteenth century:

"We used to rise from bed at 4 o'clock, and, having prayed to God, we went at 5 o'clock to our studies, our big books under our arms, our ink-horns and candles in our hands. We heard all the lectures without intermission till 10 o'clock rang; then we dined, after having hastily compared, during a half hour, our notes of the lectures."

"After dinner we read, as a recreation, Euripides, or Aristophanes, or Cicero, Virgil, or Horace. At 1 o'clock to our studies; at 5 back to our dwelling place, there to go over and verify passages cited in the lectures until 6. Then supper, and after supper we read Greek and Latin."

"On holy days we went to high mass and vespers; the rest of the days, a little music and walks."

False Impression Cleared Up.
He was a big man, with bushy whiskers. The great ship had just passed out between the capes and was swiftly plunging through the waves that were too high to climb over. All but a few of the passengers had gone inside. He swallowed several times with considerable emphasis and then hurried to the rail. After he had been leaning over it for a little while another man approached him and in sympathetic tones asked:

"Are you sick?"

When he could find the time to do so the man with the whiskers asked—and there was a twinge of reproach in his voice as he did so:

"You fool, do you think I'm doing this to keep Lent?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

When a Japanese audience wish to express disapproval of a play, they turn their backs to the stage.

Wash Day.
"Wash day is Monday everywhere," said a globe trotter.

He made a gesture of amazement. "How strange that is," he said. "We believe in the Bible, the Algerians believe in the Koran, but both of us believe in the same wash day."

"The Germans, the French, the English, the South Americans, the Arabs, the Japs, the Chinese, all have Monday for wash day. G o where you will over the world, and on Monday clothes, white and wet from the tub, flap crazily in the wind."

Patriotism and Matrimony.

A French professor in Algiers who recently married a German lady, applied for a divorce the other day on the ground that his wife was suffering from an acute attack of patriotism. The honeymoon was scarcely over before she manifested virulent anti-French tendencies. A valuable French clock was removed to make room for a bust of Bismarck. The husband patiently bore these slights on his national honor, but when his wife persisted in playing a noisy piano composition entitled "The Siege of Paris," he applied to the court for redress without avail.

Nothing will relieve digestion that is not a thorough digestant. Kodol dyspepsia cure digests what you eat and allows the stomach to rest—recuperate—grow strong again. A few doses of Kodol after meals will soon restore the stomach and the digestive organs to a full performance of their functions naturally. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Japanese Painting Exhibit.

San Francisco is to have the first exhibit of Japanese paintings ever held outside of Japan, it believes. There will be no prints, because the Japanese say prints are not art, but artistry. But there will be 150 specimens of paintings in water color or sumi (a black medium), on paper, some of them dating back 1,200 years.

What good does it do you to eat if your stomach fails to digest the food? None. It does you harm—causes belching, sour stomach, flatulence, etc. When the stomach fails a little Kodol Dyspepsia Cure after each meal will digest what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by J. H. Swan.

15,000,000 Umbrellas a Year.

Up to a few years ago, it is said, only seven patents on umbrellas had been issued in the United States in one hundred years, this despite the fact, says the American Inventor, that the annual production of umbrellas in the United States is close to 25,000,000.

The surest and safest remedy for kidney and bladder diseases is Foleys Kidney Cure. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Peanut a Root Plant.

The peanut is a root plant; that is, the buds, after blossoming, bend down, enter the earth and become the nuts. The nuts, therefore, are dug out of the earth like potatoes.

A Thing of Beauty is a—Drain!

At a dinner of the Sanitary Inspectors' association at Holborn restaurant, Sir Wyke Bayliss confessed that art and sanitation seemed far apart. "Would you compare art," some would say, "with a drain running down a street?" "Yet one of the loveliest things in the world was a drain (laughter)—when it was consecrated by art in the form of a gargoyle on the roof of a cathedral. The two were not so far apart. Art was the science of beauty; sanitation was the science of health; and what were beauty and health if they were not the same thing?"—London Telegraph.

Pneumonia is Robbed of its terror.

By Foleys Honey and Tar. It stops the racking cough and heals and strengthens the lungs. If taken in time it will prevent an attack of pneumonia. Refuse substitutes. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Worthy of Encouragement.

A Brooklyn policeman who was charged with absconding himself from his post offered as an excuse that he had gone into a church to pray, and he was let off with a reprimand, as praying policemen are believed to be rare.—Utica Press.

When the late Judge Newtosh of Southboro presided over the court in Westboro, he had before him one day a poor and illiterate Frenchman accused of selling liquor. As it was his first offense, he was fined $50. Evidently $50 was a fortune to the Frenchman, and it was also evident that he had a vague conception of the seriousness of his crime, for, turning a startled look on the judge, he exclaimed in wild tones: "For God's sake, judge, why didn't yer hung me?"—Boston Herald.

A Chattanooga Druggists Statement.

Robt. J. Miller, proprietor of the Red House Drug Store of Chattanooga, Tenn., writes: There is more merit in Foleys Honey and Tar than in any other cough syrup. The calls for it multiply wonderfully and we sell more of it than all other cough syrups combined. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Fish Story Hard to Beat.

Here is a fish story told by a British nobleman: An Irishman had caught a big pike. Noting a lump in its stomach, he cut it open. "As I cut it open there was a mighty rush and a flapping of wings, and away flew a wild duck; and when I looked inside, there was a nest with four eggs, and she had been atther sitting on the nest."

The Little Darling.

Some flowers are universal favorites. Of these the mignonette is one. Its original home was north Africa, from which it found its way to Italy and then to Paris. Here Lord Balmorloch met it in 1742, and, being enamored of it, brought some seeds to England, where he was thus its introducer. Delighted with its unassuming look and choice fragrance, he called it Mignonette, or "Little Darling." The strange thing is that though this word is French, the plant is not known by it in France. In that country it is styled le Reseda odorant, which is merely the French translation of its scientific name, Reseda odorata.

The most rational remedy for coughs and colds is Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar. It acts on the bowels like a mild cathartic, expels all cold from the system. Cuts all phlegm out of the throat, relieves coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, etc. An ideal remedy for children, equally good for adults. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Constituent Was Displeased.

A pertinent question was put in an indignant letter from an anonymous constituent to a candidate at the general election. "Dear Sir," he wrote, among other things, "I hope the devil will get you. If he does not, what's the use of having a devil?"—London Mail.

A Brutalizing Influence.

The telephone is having a brutalizing influence. The sensitive-minded man, who would shrink from saying a disagreeable thing in ordinary conversation, when talking through the telephone will speak his mind as bluntly and argue as roughly, as does an ordinary business man, and, finding the path of brutality less painful than he imagined, becomes as truculent when not talking on the telephone.—The Graphic.

Dreadful Attack of Whooping Cough.

Mrs. Ellen Harrison of 900 Park Ave., Kansas City, Mo., writes as follows: Our two children had a severe attack of whooping cough, one of them in the paroxysm of coughing would often faint and bleed at the nose. We tried everything we heard of without getting relief. We then called in our family doctor who prescribed Foleys Honey and Tar. With the very first dose they began to improve and we feel that it has saved their lives. Refuse substitutes. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Few Women Faint.

It is a curious fact, of general remark, and observed not by physicians only, that fainting is less common than it used to be. It is rare that one sees a woman carried out of a church or theater, yet forty years ago it was a matter of such common occurrence as barely to excite remark. This is due in very great measure to the outdoor life young women lead in these days of tennis and golf and other sports. The heart and the circulation are strengthened by exercise in the open air and it takes a great shock to disorder the blood balance in the body of the modern woman.

Dont tie a cough or a cold up in the system by taking a remedy that binds the bowels. Take Kennedys Laxative Honey and Tar. It is different from all other cough syrups. It opens the bowels and expels all cold from the system, relieves coughs, colds, croup, whooping coughs, etc. An ideal remedy for young and old. Children like it. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Cultivate Gentleness.

After all, it is a very short life, and certainly much too short for rudeness and coldness and cruelty. You have the gentle heart, do not let it be smothered in worldliness. If you have not got it, try to acquire it.

Real Prize Beef.

A steer that produces the choicest beef is the one that is not only fat, but also well supplied with lean. Tail-locks often secure the prize at fat stock shows in preference to meat that is intimately interspersed with lean and fat. Weight does not always indicate quality of flesh.

Human blood Marks.

A tale of horror was told by marks of human blood in the home of J. W. Williams a well known merchant of Bao, Ky. He writes: Twenty years ago I had severe hemorrhages of the lungs, and was near death when I began taking Dr. Kings New Discovery. It completely cured me and I have remained well every since. It cures hemorrhages, chronic coughs, settled colds and bronchitis and is the only known cure for weak lungs. Every bottle guaranteed by J. H. Swan, druggist, 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

First C. E. Society in Japan.

The first Christian Endeavor society in Japan was a society of the missionaries' children. It could meet only once a year at the annual meeting of the mission stations. Now Japan has 128 Christian Endeavor societies.

Children and Sleep.

One of the greatest mistakes of parents and those who have charge of children is that they are likely to allow the young ones too little time to sleep. With one excuse or another the youngsters are up later at night than they should be, and as they must be off to school betimes in the morning and there may be duties to perform they are called before they have finished their morning nap. Children, as a rule, ought to sleep ten or eleven hours, and to do this they must be put to bed early enough at night so that they may get this amount of uninterrupted rest.—Modern Women.

Living indoors so much during the winter months creates a sort of a stuffy, want-of-ozone condition in the blood and system generally. Clean up and get ready for spring. Take a few Early Risers. These famous little pills cleanse the liver stomach and bowels and give the blood a chance to purify itself. They relieve head ache, sallow complexion, etc. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Earliest Musical Notes.

The earliest written signs for musical notes were the letters of the alphabet; and their use for this purpose dates from a very early period. The ancient Hebrews employed certain accents to mark the rise and fall of the human voice in chanting their psalms and prayers.

Foleys Kidney cure if taken in time affords security from all bladder and kidney trouble. Sold by J. H. Swan.

Animals in the Water.

The horse can swim for miles without being exhausted, and shows a wonderful instinct in choosing the best available landing place. Bears and moles swim well, but bats and monkeys are helpless in the water.

Is the Moon Inhabited.

Science has proven that the moon has an atmosphere, which makes life in some form possible on that satellite, but not for human beings, who have a hard enough time on this earth of ours especially those that don't know that Electric Bitters cure headache, biliousness, malaria, chills and fever, jaundice, dyspepsia, dizziness, torpid liver, kidney complaints, general debility and female weaknesses. Unequalled as a general tonic and appetizer for weak persons and especially for the aged. It induces sound sleep. Fully guaranteed by J. H. Swan druggist. Price only 50c.
